

Privacy Policy

The D&B Power Associates, Inc (D&B) Privacy Policy provides information regarding accuracy, access, security, and how D&B controls client information acquired from its website.

Handling of personal information

D&B requests information from clients if they choose to subscribe to email lists, place orders or if they choose to respond to advertising, promotions, sweepstakes, or contests. This personal information is necessary in order for D&B to fulfill the client's request.

This information may also be used by D&B to contact or update the client with periodic D&B publications, product details or other special offers. In the consent of email, only clients who have consented to receive email updates are included on email lists and you can unsubscribe at any time by emailing notifications to the webmaster. D&B does not share email addresses with other companies. D&B does not partner with or have special relationships with any ad server companies.

From time to time, D&B may use customer information for new, unanticipated uses not previously disclosed in our privacy notice. If information practices change at some time in the future D&B will post the policy changes to the D&B website to notify the client of these changes and provide instructions to opt-out of these new uses.

D&B website management uses IP addresses to diagnose Webserver problems and to administer the D&B website. Cookies may be used to store client variables such as keeping track of inventory if an online shopping cart, limiting repeated exposure to the same ads or bypassing login prompts by "remembering" passwords across sessions.

If you feel that this site is not following its stated information policy, D&B may be contacted at dbpower@dbpowerinc.com.